School Board Amends, Approves Final Budget

ByNELLFISCHER Sun Staff Writer

Corsicana school spent $3,984,396.48 last year, according to the final amended budget presented to the school board Tuesday.

Out of that sum, administration totaled $113,759.86; instruction $2,235,687.75, and transportation, $87,446.04; $205,743 for plant operation; and $64,825 for maintenance.

Noting that transportation figures had to be increased over $40,000, Euin Frank, assistant superintendent of fiscal affairs, explained that last year was the first year for city-wide transportation and that school buses need more oil and gas than was estimated.

Another amended item was the plant operation fund which was increased by $14,000. Again, Frank explained that the new high school, in its first year, required more funds than was estimated.

He said after the total revenue from all sources was added to bond money and with expenditures subtracted, there was about $13,000 remaining.

Resources totaled 517,600, with the largest amounts coming from local revenue $1,487,779 and state sources, $1,838,824.

Joe Seale, school superintendent released figures concerning administrative salaries as follows:

propositions, one for school tax and one for school bonds in an election Saturday, announced G. H. Wear, election judge. The first proposition empowers the county commissioners court to levy annual school taxes "at a rate of not to exceed one dollar and fifty cents on the $100 valuation of taxable property" in the district. This represents an increase of one dollar.

The second proposition will mean the issuance of $100,000 in school bonds that will provide funds for construction of a gymnasium and dressing romms.

There were 110 votes in the one box at the school, with 94 votes cast for the first proposition and 14 against and 93 votes for the second proposition and 16 against

Rice School Votes

The Navarro County Commissioner's Court apparently put an end to complaints over Saturday's school tax and bond election in Rice when canvass of the election returns Wednesday afternoon matched the earlier announced

The canvass revealed 89 tax-paying electors and five non-tax-paying electors voted in favor of proposition No. 1 and 88 tax-paying electors and five non-taxpaying electors favored proposition No.

Teachers Await Word on Raises

Teachers and administrators are awaiting official notice from Dr. J.W. Edgar, state education commissioner regarding the effect of the wage-price freeze on local teachers.

Joe Seale, superintendent of schools, said that he still did not know if the teachers would be able to receive all of the $350 they should receive under the new 10-year scaled pay raise now in its third year.

Seale said he expects an official memorandum next Tuesday or Wed-

Train Derails Near Wortham

Nine cars of a Southern Pacific train derailed one mile from Wortham at 9 p.m. Wednesday, destroying about onehalf mile of track.

Apparently, the dreailment was caused by a broken knuckle between cars, causing the cars behind to pile up. The cars were at the rear of a full train of 93 full and 32 empty cars. One car carried canned goods, but the cargo of the others was not known.

Repairmen arrived on the scene and presently the tracks are repaired and the trains are passing through.

'No' votes were 14 and 0 against No. 1 and 16 and 0 against No. 2.

As per a request from the school trustees, the commissioner's court set the tax rate fro the Rice Common School District at $1.50 per $100 valuation. In other action by the court:

-The county auditor was authorized to set aside $3,000 out of the Flood Control Fund for maintenance of detention dams. The figure is to be matched with funds from the state.

Water Supply Corporation to use county ditches and roads for extension of a water line in the Union High area, subject to the roads and ditches being returned to their former condition.

Q: Would it be possible to get at least a Yield Right of Way sign installed on Don Street (formerly called Skeet Club road) parallel to the Rock Island tracks at N. Beaton St.? This is a particularly hazardous area since it is near where N. 13th and N. Beaton merge and the only present traffic control is a stop sign on N. 13th northbound. (Mrs. A.M.G.)

A: It's highly possible that something can and will be done. Your inquiry was one of the first directed to new City Engineer Bob Scott on his first day on the job, and he'll look into the matter. Corsicana residents, particularly the motoring public, will be pleased to learn that City Engineer Scott, being a qualified traffic engineer, will be giving Corsicana's streets and traffic controls—or lack of them—close scrutiny.

Ennis Out Temporarily

Corsicana Part Of Amtrak Plan

By JACKIE ATWOOD Emis Correspondent

Corsicana appears to be only a few months away from joining Amtrak, the nation-wide passenger rail service, as part of a proposed Dallas-to-Houston

"A hopeful estimate," Dallas County Commissioner John Whittington said from his office Thursday morning, "would be service within six months."

Whittington and other county and city officials met in Dallas Wednesday with two top Amtrak officials, planning director Dave Watts and congressional relations director Joe Matthews, to discuss the proposal.

"It's strictly in the movingforward stage," Whittington said, "there's nothing definite

According to the commissioner, present thinking would be to use the Southern Pacific route which would carry the Amtrak line through Ennis and Corsicana to Houston.

Amtrak officials currently anticipate a "flag stop" — meaning the train would stop only when there are passengers to disembark or board — in Corsicana. Service would be once a day to both Dallas and Houston.

It is understood, Whittington added, that there will not be a stop immediately scheduled in Ennis "because we're trying for competitive schedules with other modes of transportation." College Station, however, was mentioned as another possible "flag stop," he said.

As proposed, there would be no new construction of tracks, he said, but "satisfactory safety standards" would have to be met.

The Dallas-to-Houston plan under consideration would include Dallas in Houston-to-Chicago railroad service for passengers. The plan tentatively calls for trains to be re-routed through Fort Worth to Dallas.

Whittington added that he doubted if the service would be satisfactory for commuter service from Corsicana to Dallas as the tentative plans call for boarding the north-bound train at 10:30 or 11 a.m.

W. H. Ford, Corsicana station manager for Southern Pacific, said Thursday that he had anticipated such a move on the part of Amtrak and expected that the service might be in operation "sometime this winter."

"If they come to Dallas," he said, "they'll have to come through here."

The two Amtrak officials visited in Waco this morning and were scheduled to reach Houston this afternoon. Their schedule calls for the pair to return to Washington tonight or tomorrow.

While in Dallas they toured the vacant Union Terminal and the Southern Pacific tracks between Dallas and Fort Worth. They ruled out any possibility of reopening the terminal, but, according to Whittington, the land available in the terminal parking lot could be used as the sight of a smaller and more practical station for passengers.

Daily Sun To Sponsor School Newspaper Study

By SAM PENDERGRAST

Reported to The Daily Sun by Gordon Editor of The Sun The Corsicana Daily Sun will begin Oct. 4 a "newspaper in the classroom" program in English, social studies, journalism and other classes throughout the "Golden Circle", according to Wayne Powell, publisher of The Daily

> During the two-week program, the students of all participating teachers will be given daily editions of The Sun, and teachers will supervise a program of study, discussion and educational projects dealing with the daily newspapers.

The Daily Sun will sponsor a 'newspaper in the classroom' luncheon at the newspaper office the Saturday before the program begins, familiarize teachers with the operation of the newspaper and the various approaches to presenting the classroom program, Powell said. Powell, Advertising Manager Alvin Holley, and this editor will work informally with the teachers to help prepare them for the classroom use of the newspaper.

There will be no charge of any kind for either the student or the teachers who will be furnished with a handbook and other materials to simplify the class work and guarantee that it will be comprehensive and interesting.

Powell, who has been a pioneer in setting up "newspaper classroom'' programs in Indiana,

Maryland, and Texas, says "The purpose of the program is not to sell newspapers or even to propagandize students and teachers about our own newspaper. The program is designed to help students learn how to read newspaper for both information and entertainment—to find out what happening across the ocean as well as across town, and to get the better insight and the more interesting outlook on things that we feel only a daily newspaper can offer."

In fact, the program encourages students to read and compare several newspapers in the course of the project, since students are invited to select whatever newspaper they wish compare with the hometown newspaper.

The program is being set up here in response to inquiries from educators in the "Golden Circle" who have heard of such a program elsewhere or are interested in finding a convenient, effective means of relating classroom work to current events.

Junior high, "middle school" and high school classes are eligible to enroll in the program, and enough newspapers will be provided free to allow for every student in every class whose teacher

There are two basic programs, according to Powell: one for routine classroom work, the other for classes of students who have had difficulty reading textbooks and other customary classroom materials.

The Daily Sun will mail information about the program, together with a sample of the teacher's guide, to every junior high and high school principal in the "Golden Circle", Powell said, and he said any principal who fails to get the materials by mid-September should contact The Daily Sun.

Teachers should ask their principals about the program, Powell said, although the editor or the publisher will be glad to answer any questions teachers

In addition to the introductory workshop session, members of the staff of The Daily Sun will be available for classroom appearances during the program and to address school assemblies in conjunction with the

"We are happy to offer the free newspapers and the assistance of our staff in coordinating this program," Powell said, "because we feel that newspapers in general—and The Daily Sun in particular—have a big stake in the future of our young people and future leaders.

"The more our students know about their city and area and the world, the better off we will all be tomorrow, and we naturally feel that the best place to get a factual picture of what is happening—as well as balanced, carefully thought-out opinions on the issues of the day—is in the daily newspaper."

—Permission was granted the Corbet New Tax Appraise Hired To Replace R.D. Parker

City Tax Assessor Collector Charles "Jakie" Pugh confirmed Thursday that he is replacing Richard D. Parker, a part-time appraiser, Sept. 15 with a newly hired, younger man who will work full time.

Pugh said he had informed Parker he would be retired Sept. 15 "as he is too old, 69, to be put on the payroll full

He said he had employed Ernest Stokes, who is about 55, and a former employe of Sears, Roebuck & Co. here, to begin work Sept. 16 on a full time basis as an appraiser for the tax office, one of two for which allowance at $500 a month is being made in the new city budget. The Board of Equalization recommended to the city it employ one, preferably two full time appraisers, and begin a complete re-appraisal of all taxable property in Corsicana over a four-year period.

"I would like to have just one full time appraiser for a while to see if we really need more than one," said Pugh who was elected in April, succeeding Miss Kate Dunn who retired after more than 30 years elective service.

Parker said he was told he was "not being fired" just that his part time services would not be needed after Sept.

15 as his duties would be absorbed by newly hired full time appraisers.

He began working for the City in the tax office in June, 1966, starting as a full time tax appraiser until early 1967 when he had to under go eye surgery after which he went on part time status. He said during this period of time, he had made tax appraisals on his "own time" for insurance companies, individual citizens and the Corsicana school system.

"I have already lined up other employment effective Oct. 1 through the Christmas rush. After the first of the year, I will be back in the independent appraisal and confidential information field." Parker said.

Corsicana had had no appraiser as such in the city tax office until Parker was hired by former City Manager Rollin Snethen and Miss Dunn, and he had no previous experience. Parker prepared by studying, he said, about a month delving into all angles of the work from material available through insurance company appraisal libraries and professional organizations which he affiliated with—the Texas Appraisers and Assessors organization.

Acknowledging that Stokes has had no prior background in tax appraisal work either, Pugh and City Manager Bob Brockman pointed out "you can't hire an experienced appraiser for $500 a mon-

Country Music's 'hitmaker', Faron Young, will be the star attraction Thursday night, September 9, at the Grand Opening celebration of Wards Cut Rate Drugs, 842 West 7th Avenue in Corsicana.

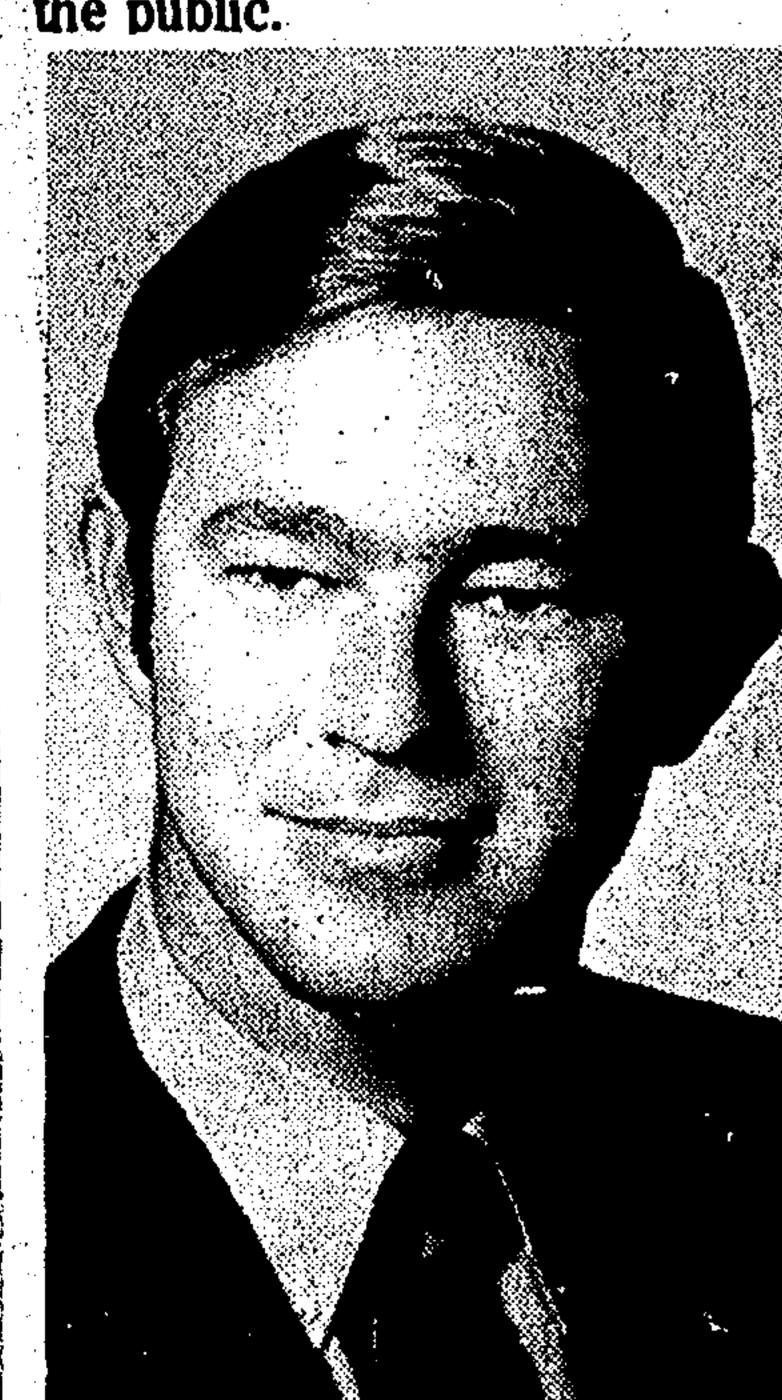

When Faron Young was in an automobile accident about a year ago and suffered multiple facial injuries, there were those who would have written off his career. It would have been an incredible career even at that time. At the age of 38 he already had recorded enough hits to make him a legend. Others who knew "The Singing Sheriff" knew better. They were aware he would overcome whatever adversity presented itself and return to making records that would take him to the top.

Young's career professionally at the age of 19, when he had his first big song. Now, at 39, he has racked up 58 of them, each in the top ten of the charts. His biggest hit undoubtedly was "Hello Walls", which currently is nearing the two-million mark in sales.

Faron travels in his $80,000 MC-7 Custom-made bus with private bedrooms, lives in a $300,000 home (paid for) with his German-born wife and four children, operates from a plush office just off Music Row in Nashville and has business interests galore.

As a record-seller, Young has few peers. There are not many who can match his consistency over the years. As an entertainer, he best showed his abilities at a recent appearance at Madison Square Garden. Having to follow Sonny James is an almost impossible task, and Faron was the first to admit it. But he went on the stage and enthralled the massive audience, and completely won them over. His rapport with an audience is unexcelled.

Corsicana residents will have the opportunity to see and hear Faron Young's 'magic' at the Wards Cut Rate Drug Store opening Thursday, September 9 at 7:30 p.m. The show is free to the public.

Civil Service Sets Date For Appeal

A hearing has been set by the Corsicana Civil Service Commission for Sept. 8 on Capt. David Garrett's appeal of Chief Don Massey's recommendation to the CSC he be demoted.

Chief Massey said Friday that he recommended that the Civil Service Commission authorize Garrett's demotion from captain in charge of radio patrol, but to no specific rank in grade. He originally, on Aug. 13, notified Garrett of his demotion from captain to the last previous rank he had held, that of accident investigator, before promotion to captaincy in charge of radio patrol.

After the Civil Service Commission overruled his authority to make "instant demotions" due to a procedural error, Chief Massey subsequently notified Garrett he was suspended for 7 days. He completed suspension Monday, returning to duty Tuesday of this week.

Director Roosevelt R. Pease announced the hearing on the appeal will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 8 in the City Hall courtroom.

Officer Kelsey To Quit Force

Police Chief Don Massey announced Friday that Officer George Kelsey had submitted his resignation today to be effective Aug. 31, end of the department's pay period.

He said Kelsey, who has been a member of the force since June 14, 1967, gave "personal reasons" for leaving the department indicating he was seeking higher paid employment in another field.

The police chief said he has "backlog" of 18 to 20 applications for for vacancies and will begin studying them with the view of picking a replacement from a reservoir of applicants, all of whom have completed Civil Service examinations.

"I may employ another Black officer to bring the department back up to the three we formerly had," Chief Massey said.

NCAC Board Has Meeting

It took exactly six minutes last week for the Navarro County Action Committee's Board of Directors to dispense with old business that had been sidetracked in previous meetings for lack of a quorum.

Board Chairman William McKie finally had a quorum Thursday evening, and he wasted no motion in getting unanimous approval for a $176,556 Office of Economic Opportunity versatile funded accounts budget that had been informally approved in the July meeting. The budget, for fiscal year 1971-72, includes:

Conduct and Administration

fiscal year 1971-72, includes: Conduct and Administrati $60,879. General Services $56,154.

Housing $25,722.

Adult Education $11,351.

Manpower-Education Coordination $22,450.

An OEO letter of agreement to the NCAC has authorized $168,700 of the total figure. Pending at the OEO offices is a request to reinstate $6,557 of the difference. Approval of the budget was the only major item on the agenda. Admitting that he wanted to get home "in time to see the Cowboys game," McKie told the assemblage that he would "listen to anyone on any subject for exactly five minutes." When no one spoke up, McKie adjourned the meeting, six minutes after he had called it to order at 7:02 p.m.

Attending the meeting were District Judge James Sewell, Corsicana Mayor Sue Youngblood, Corsicana city commissioners Bob Scott and P.D. Fullwood, Blooming Grove Mayor R. W. McGaha, Frost Mayor J. L. Williams, Clifford Williams of the Frost school board, Dawson city councilman Leonard Tanner, W. A. Haden of the Blooming Grove school board, Kerens city secretary E. C. Watson, Louis Hicks of the Corsicana public schools, Mrs. Mabel Mabry and Jesse Beamon. Neighborhood representation included Jean Tankersley, Willie Mae Lewis, Ocel Miller, Rev. T. A. Turner, Fannie Wilson, Tillmon Brown and Bill Smith, who represented the Neighborhood Youth organization.
